Robert Healy, executive editor of the Boston Globe, will be the guest speaker at a special program sponsored by the Friends of the Cohasset Library Sunday, Jan. 28 at 4 p.m. at the Unitarian Parish House, 25 N. Main St. Healy's topic will be "Decision making in the Press."

Healy is a recipient of many awards for distinguished journalism. In 1957, he received the Boston Press Club's AMASA Howe Award; in 1963, he won the Associated Press award; in 1965, he broke the principal story about Francis Morrissey's qualifications for a federal judgeship that led to the Globe's first gold medal Pulitzer Prize for meritorious public service. For the same stories that year Healy accepted the Sevellon Brown Award for the Globe. Healy also, in 1965, was awarded the Sigma Delta Chi medal.

In addition to his duties as executive editor, Healy is also political editor of the Globe. In this capacity he covered the beginnings of the Vietnam War, the assassinations of John Kennedy and Robert Kennedy and every presidential campaign since 1956. His column "Political Beat" appears on the editorial pages twice weekly.

For a period of six years, Healy has conducted seminars on presidential politics at Harvard University's Kennedy Institute of Politics and was a visiting professor at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.
